

7 Reasons Why it's AS SAFE For A Caregiver To Care For Your Loved One:

#1 Your loved one has dementia or a chronic medical condition. It's of the utmost importance to ensure they are taking their medication.

#2 Your loved one is a fall risk- we need to keep our seniors safe at home or in an assisted, or independent living facility. During this unprecedented time, we need to decrease hospital visits.

#3 Your loved one needs help getting out of bed, showering, getting dressed, meal preparation and light housekeeping.

#4 Your loved one is prone to respiratory infections or UTI infections. Our Certified Health Aides (CHHA's) can ensure they are taking proper precautions and medications to stay healthy.

#5 Our CHHA's are our employees and are insured and bonded. Our team of nurses have trained and in serviced them to all the CDC protocols of the coronavirus and continue to do so as they arise. Our aides are supplied with gloves and masks to ensure the safety of our seniors.

#6 Seniors in Place has helped thousands of seniors since 2001 and is accredited with distinction. The Blecker family started the business in memory of their grandmother and mom, and understands what families go through when their loved one needs help. Our team of case managers are accessible 24/7 and are here to help.

#7 There are no guarantees that your loved one will not get the Coronavirus. However, be rest assured that Seniors In Place is doing everything possible to protect our employees and clients against the spread of this virus.

Call if you have any questions 24/7 regarding senior in home healthcare.
